The circle of State histories is nearly omplete! with the labors of the venerble J. F. H. Claiborne to bring out his listory of Mississippi in three large olumes at the office of The Claron lewspaper at Jackson. The publisher of that paper, recently remarked to me hat volume second was in full MS., and colume third nearly ready, while the list volume, coming down to 1830, is sublished in excellent style for a country lewspaper office. Claiborne is the author of the "Life of General Quitman," and a descendant of the first Governor of the "Life of General Quitman," and a descendant of the first Governor of the "Life of General Quitman," and a descendant of the first Governor of the "Life of General Quitman," and a descendant of the first Governor of the "Life of General Quitman," and a descendant of the first Governor of the "Life of General Quitman," and a descendant of the came to be sume political party. The commission is to designate examining committees after consultation with the Cabinet officer, customs collectors or postmaster for positions in whose office the examinaher of the "Life of General Quitman," nd a descendant of the first Governor of Louisiana.
